Introduction

The 35th Annual BACCN conference was initially set to take place on the 14 & 15 September at the NTU Nottingham. The conference theme was "Critical Care Nursing: The Next Decade"

Following the outbreak of COVID 19 in March, discussions were had as to whether the conference could be delivered virtually and in April the announcement was made that this year would be the first ever virtual BACCN Conference.

The virtual conference took place on the same dates and was hosted at Woodhaven Space in Woking. There were 11 Board members, 4 presenters, 1 support volunteer, 6 AV team and 1 conference organiser present onsite. All other presenters and delegates attended virtually.

The programme consisted of 6 plenary and 4 parallel breakout sessions across two days. On Sunday 13th, conference opened with the virtual Welcome Reception via Zoom.

The main programme consisted of 9 workshops, 3 live streamed simulation labs, 32 concurrent presentations, 26 posters and 12 pre-recorded poster presentations. The virtual conference also included a resource hub where additional pre-recorded presentations were added that could not be included in the main programme.

In the evenings, the delegates were invited to join a virtual welcome reception and virtual Gala Dinner via Zoom.

Effectiveness of Marketing

When registering to attend the event delegates were asked 'how did you hear about this event' the responses are shown below. The BACCN membership e-newsletter and website shows a significant dominance in how people hear about conference, alongside social media and through a colleague / workplace valuing the Link Members in each unit.

Social Media

Facebook – 6,572 likes (5,576 in Nov 2019) - www.facebook.com/BACCN

Twitter – 8,725 followers (6,435 in Nov 2019) - www.twitter.com/BACCNUK

Instagram – 910 followers (475 in Nov 2019) - www.instagram.com/baccnuk/

There continues to be fantastic growth in all social media streams. The Twitter Chats are proving to be a great way of growing our following on Twitter in particular.

This year we continued to build on our Conference social media activity as Jonathan Downham arranged several interviews with conference presenters, sponsors, and the conference director. This proved very valuable in increasing our social media presence at the time. All the videos are still available on Facebook.

Sponsors and Exhibitors

Virtual Exhibition Area

This year saw the introduction of the first BACCN Virtual Exhibition. This included a unique page for each exhibitor, where they could have a video presentation, company profile, product details, links to their own site and staff contact information.

The exhibition area received 2424 hits during the conference.

Exhibition and Sponsorship Revenues

The conference brought in a total of £35,900 for exhibitor and sponsorship packages. This was of course much lower than budgeted due to moving the conference online and having to price packages so sponsors and exhibitors would still support the event, despite it being a completely new type of event for them.

Sponsorship Revenue

The figure achieved for sponsorship sales was £22,300.00. We feel this figure is a great achievement given the complete change in event format and not a great deal lower than last year's figure.

Cavell Nurses

Cavell Nurses Trust is the charity supporting UK nurses, midwives, and healthcare assistants, both working and retired, when they are suffering personal or financial hardship often due to illness, disability, older age, domestic abuse, and the impact of the coronavirus. From simple, essential support like money to repair a broken boiler, to vital, life-changing aid like helping a family flee their home due to domestic abuse, Cavell Nurses? Trust is here to help. This support transforms lives, and the nursing and midwifery professionals we help often say they are happier, healthier, and able to stay in or return to work.

Laura Hyde Foundation

The Laura Hyde Foundation, the UK's newest and only charity that focuses on mental health awareness and support specifically for our medical and emergency services personnel.

The Laura Hyde Foundation donated lanyards for the medals for our morning fun run, and this was well received by the runners.

Launch Pad

For the 3rd Year running, the Launch Pad was well received with the delegates.

With the format being virtual, launch pad consisted of pre-recorded video presentations with product demonstrations during the coffee and lunch breaks.

The duration of each launch pad was approximately 15 mins and delegates were encouraged to direct all questions to the exhibit directly by instant messaging on the exhibitor's profile page.

Companies took part in the Launch Pad session which were as follows:

- LINET
- Stryker
- Intersurgical
- Pentland Medical
- NHS North Bristol

Due to taking the conference online and the amount of uncertainty during these times, the booking pattern follows a completely different trend to what we have seen before.

As the event was virtual, registrations remained open for delegates to join last minute if they wished. The number of bookings started to increase from July when abstracts were confirmed, and presenters started to register to attend.

Demographics (percentage of registered attendees from each region)

Despite the conference being made accessible by a much wider audience, the demographic data stayed the same. Noticeable jumps were from Southern, the Midlands and Wales, whereas Central South, North West and Scotland all had less bookings than before.

Technology at Conference

This year we faced the challenge of finding an app that could not only host a virtual conference, but include many of the different elements expected at a BACCN Conference such as various streams, poster presentations, sim lab, exhibition space and more.

Following several conversations with a variety of app developers, the decision was made to use All In The Loop, as they confirmed they could provide everything we were looking to achieve as well as providing a quote within budget.

Once the conference drew closer, it became apparent that All In The Loop were not able to deliver the full conference experience they had promised us but, with Echo and CPS, worked to achieve as best an outcome as possible. However, on the event days themselves, it was evident the app was not able to cope and the system did fail on many occasions. Despite the number of technical issues experienced, the feedback from delegates was extremely positive. See below some comments received via the post event survey:

- I know you had some IT problems but you worked through them fantastically and i would say well done to everyone who organised this, it cant have been easy but you did a great job. Thank you.
- Occasional technical problems but to be expected with a conference so large using this type of technology for the first time. Overall very well done.
- There were a few Blips but considering the enormity of the task I thought it was phenomenal

The Event App in numbers:

- 593 unique users registered onto the event app
- Of those 280 logged in to watch sessions
- 2151 messages sent during the conference
- 4019 sessions were viewed

#ConferenceRevisited2020

Since conference, we have hosted a series of webinars free to BACCN members and BACCN Virtual Conference Attendees to revisit some of the Sponsor workshops that were shown during conference. This gave our sponsors some additional exposure and a chance to connect with those delegates who experienced technical issues and were not able to view the session originally.

We have also launched a conference revisited site where the conference content is available for everyone who registered for the conference and BACCN Members.

Recommendations for Future Years

Event Style

- Hybrid Event

Many delegates have commented how great it has been to attend the conference this year as they normally cannot make it to a physical event. Also, with everything still being very uncertain for the next 12 months, many will not feel comfortable attending a physical event.

Programme

- Content

Following the technical issues experienced this year, comments have been made regarding attempting to replicate a physical event online instead of embracing the virtual element. Going forward I think a focus on having less content might work better and allow delegates more time to engage with the presenters and move between sessions. This will also reduce any issues with session times. Also, having a platform training session could be incorporated into the welcome reception for those viewing online.

- Live/pre-recorded presentations

The option to pre-record sessions was great for many presenters to still be involved in the event. However, a live presentation is much more engagement and should be encouraged for future events, whether in person or virtually.

Technology

- Conference App

Now we have the experience of a virtual event and with many events now taking place virtually, there is much more choice and feedback available for us to research apps that can manage the requirements of the BACCN Conference going forward.

Bookings

- Tiered payment structure to include a reduced price for attending virtually.

Planned dates for 2020:

Super Earlybird launch – November 2020

Abstract submission open – December 2020

Abstract submission closes – 31 Mar 2021

Standard bookings open – 30 June 2021

Thank you

The BACCN would like to thank all those involved in making the first virtual conference a success. In particular we'd like to thank our invited and contributing speakers who helped build and present a fantastic and varied programme. We'd also like to say a special thank you to all our sponsors and exhibitors for their support and participation at the conference.
